

VENTURAPOTTERYONLINE.COM
NOVEMBER FEATURED ARTIST

Foz

In November, VenturaPotteryOnline is featuring the work of Foz. Foz' work is truly unique among our VenturaPotteryOnline.com potters. Foz' work harkens back to traditional methods of forming and firing clay, yet the pieces will fit into the most contemporary of surroundings.

“I am a student of clay. I view creating with clay an opportunity in to express my experience and worldview a tactile and visual way. Working with clay and glazes I can form and design both functional and non-functional pieces. When a piece of my work is held and examined it is my hope that that one finds a color, a texture, a use, a comfort or sense of quiet as the unique and individual qualities are experienced.

I find special joy in firing in an atmospheric environment. I love the one-of-a-kind pieces that emerge from wood and soda firings. Pieces whipped by flame and blanketed in ash yield unique both dull and warm shades brown to orangey peach, sometimes sugar textures and sometime even glass tears. Looking closely and with an informed eye one can visualize where and how a piece sat in the kiln. Each spot having a different relationship with the fire, drafts and movement of flame and ash.”
